October is Farm to School Month!

In 2010, Congress approved a resolution to officially designate October as National Farm to School Month, a time to celebrate the connections that are happening all over the country between children and local food. Each day of the month will feature a different theme. For more information about National Farm to School Month, watch an archived webinar with the National Farm to School Network's Chelsey Simpson here.

Get ready for October: "Theme of the Day" calendar celebrates Farm to School Month

National Farm to School Month kicks off October 1, but schools and organizations are making plans now! To celebrate and spotlight the many aspects of farm to school, the National Farm to School Network put together a theme of the day calendar that you can use to plan your activities. During October, each theme day will be accompanied by a blog post containing information and activity ideas. To further aid your planning process, a preview of all of the blog posts will be available on farmtoschoolmonth.org starting in mid-August. The blog posts will be written by a variety of partner organizations throughout the month, providing unique perspectives and stories. Download this PDF version of the calendar, and check out our other resources as well as the items in our shop, such as these "I ate local food today!" stickers.

Questions from the Free and Reduced Priced School Meals Application Plymouth Workshop

conducted by Judy and Nancy

August 2013

There were a number of questions that were asked during the Free and Reduced Price School Meals Application workshop conducted by Judy Gosselin and Nancy Bradford-Sisson of the BNPS. Many of the answers needed USDA clarification before they were answered. The answers have been clarified by USDA and have been compiled in the attached document. If you have further questions regarding this attachment, please contact Judy Gosselin – judy.gosselin@doe.nh.gov.
