

Content Review Sessions for 306 Rules
Calling NH Public School Educators!

Your voice is important in the review of Minimum Standards for Public Schools (Ed Rules 306).

This is a grassroots effort led by local volunteers and public school leaders!

These efforts are supported by state professional organizations such as NEA-NH, AFT-NH, NHSAA, NHASP, and NHASCD.

General Details:

- All content sections of the 306 rules will be reviewed by local NH Educators. These sections are important to the definition of an adequate education.
- All educators (Kindergarten through Grade 12) are highly encouraged to participate, including curriculum coordinators/directors and school leaders.
- Sessions are being offered in various regions of the state throughout March.

How are these sessions different from previous efforts?

- These sessions will follow a structured review process with focused time for educators to analyze each section in small groups over the course of a full day.
- Educators will do an analysis of what exists in the 306 rules for a specific content area compared to state academic standards.
- Groups will recommend language for incorporation in the Ed 306 draft. Recommendations will be made in terms of 306 language that is:
 - To be incorporated into another or new section of the ED 306 draft. Specify where that language should be incorporated and provide proposed language.
 - To be carried forward for consideration as a modification to existing State academic standards and content frameworks.
 - Proposed for content areas not addressed by current academic standards and frameworks. For such content areas, recommend condensed and concise language to serve as instructional best practices to be incorporated into the ED 306 rule proposal.
 - Not necessary to the ED 306 rule draft to be removed completely from the rules or shifted to state academic standards.
- Two days of sessions are being planned for different regions. Each day will have a list of specific content areas that are scheduled for review on that day. Educators should select one content area to review for each day. Educators may register for one or two days and select any location, regardless of the region in which your school is located.
