2023 CHARTER SCHOOL
LEADERSHIP BEST PRACTICES CONFERENCE

SEPTEMBER 19-20, 2023

New Hampshire's chartered public schools are growing across the state! Since the first school opened almost 20 years ago, new schools have opened year after year. At the start of the upcoming school year, New Hampshire will be home to over 30 open chartered public schools, all with unique missions and educational models.

For two days in September, NH chartered public school developers, leaders and board members will come together to build their skills, share experiences, and network. We invite you to support this critical event for these public schools.

NHED expects the conference to be attended by over 100 professionals including charter school leaders, board members, key supporters, and officials.

CHARTERED PUBLIC SCHOOL FACTS

In New Hampshire, chartered public schools do not receive local tax revenue. They rely on state per pupil aid, fundraising, and grants to sustain their operations.

Chartered public schools are required to renew their approval to operate every 5 years. This renewal looks at their student performance, operations, and compliance.

Chartered public schools are given an additional measure of flexibility and autonomy in their operation in exchange for additional accountability and dissemination of best practices.
